Let Your Ancestors Be Heard! Centennial of Women's Suffrage Approaches

Next year marks 100 years since the 19th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution guaranteed women the right to vote. We'd like to take a look back at this milestone through the eyes of our ancestors.

The Bulletin, GFO's quarterly publication, is seeking articles about voting in the U.S. and women's suffrage. Do you have an American suffragette in your family tree? Did your ancestor fight for women's right to vote?

The Bulletin wants YOU to contribute your story. Submitted articles will be run beginning in June 2019 and will continue (if we get enough stories) through June 2020. Submit stories of any length to bulletin@gfo.org.

Don't Let Time Get Ahead of You

Daylight Saving time ends soon! Be sure to set your clocks back Saturday night, November 3rd, before you go to sleep. We want to make sure you arrive at the correct time at our Sunday seminar with Internet genealogy guru Cyndi Ingle.

AmazonSmile rewards non-profits [501(c)(3)] by donating 0.5% of the purchase price from all eligible AmazonSmile products.

Link your existing Amazon account at smile.amazon.com and select "Accounts & Lists" (toward the top right of the screen) and click on "Your Amazon Smile." The link will open a page where you can enter your favorite organization. We're listed as "Genealogical Forum of Oregon Inc."

AmazonSmile will remember the organization you select and will apply donations as you shop!

Save by Renewing Your GFO Print Membership Before January 1st

The Board of Directors recently learned that we are losing money on members who choose to receive our publications in print. While they pay more for their annual dues, it's still not enough to cover the cost of publishing and postage.

Individual digital membership currently costs $45 per year, which includes emailed copies of the GFO's monthly publications, with print members paying an additional $12.

The Board has voted to increase the extra fee for print members to $20 starting January 1, 2019. This will allow us to break even on those who receive print copies of The Forum Insider and The Bulletin.

If you're a print member whose membership expires in 2019 and you'd like to avoid that price hike, we encourage you to renew early, before January 1, 2019. You can save even more if you sign up for a two-year membership.

After January 1, annual dues for individual, print membership will rise from $57 to $65 per year.

DNA Proves Wonder Woman is Real?

In the 1880s, a Viking warrior's grave was discovered near the town of Birka, Sweden, filled with arrows, a sword, a pair of shields, and the bones of two warhorses. Of course the remains were assumed to be male until DNA analyses, led by Uppsala University archaeologist Charlotte Hedenstierna-Jonson, made a surprising discovery last year.<sup>1</sup> The team extracted two types of DNA; mitochondrial DNA (passed down from mother to child) and nuclear DNA which would determine the sex.<sup>2</sup>

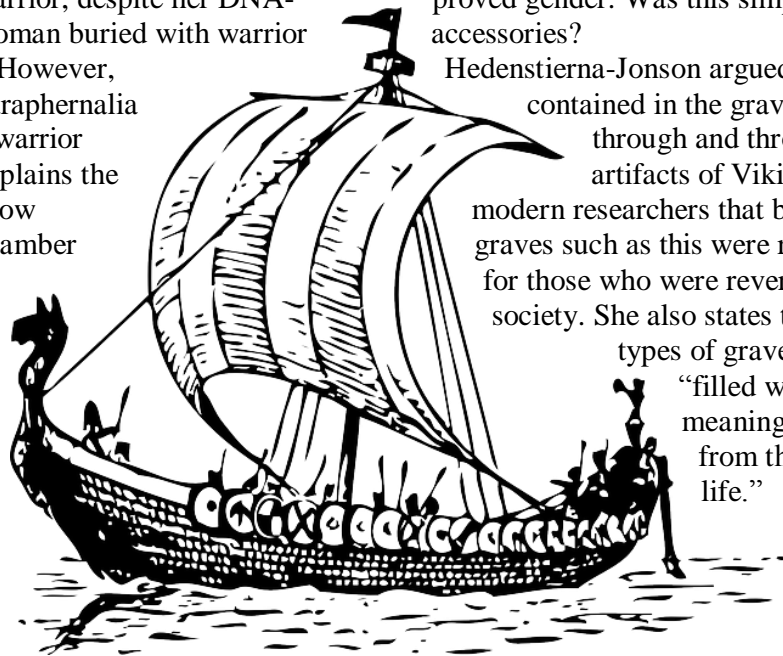

Results showed all the human bones in the grave were of the same person, and that she was in fact female.

Baylor University archaeologist Davide Zori, noted “numerous Viking sagas, such as the 13th-century Saga of the Volsungs, tell of ‘shield-maidens’ fighting alongside male warriors.”<sup>3</sup>

Zori notes that he “remains fascinated by what the discovery says about Birka, the Viking-age trading settlement where the woman was buried.”

Some Viking scholars are doubtful that the grave actually contains a warrior, despite her DNA-proved gender. Was this simply a woman buried with warrior accessories?

However, Hedenstierna-Jonson argued that the paraphernalia contained in the grave points to a warrior through and through. She explains the artifacts of Viking culture show modern researchers that burials in graves such as this were reserved for those who were revered in their society. She also states that these chamber types of graves were “filled with meaningful items from the person's life.”

Three new indexes have been added to our website! All have additional information that may be requested for $5 email copy or $7 paper copy. The new indexes include:

- West Point obituaries—from the West Point Military Academy Magazine Assembly (we received six issues as a donation, with 184 obits)
- Portland Birth Ledger 1864–1905—registered births within the city of Portland entered into a ledger held at Oregon State Vital Records office (over 16,000 births)
- Oregon Obituaries II—newspaper obits collected by Stanley Clarke and others from Oregon newspapers (over 7,000 obits)

GFO Membership Perks at the Oregon Historical Society

Did you know your GFO membership is worth $10 off when you join the Oregon Historical Society (OHS)? Did you know your GFO membership also provides you with 10 percent off at OHS's gift shop? We're pleased to be an affiliate of OHS and provide you these benefits.

OHS has a vast and diverse trove of information about Oregon's history. It has an outstanding research library that can be accessed online or in person via your OHS membership. Several of its current exhibits include: "Pioneering Compassion: 150 years at the Oregon Humane Society," "The Playful Brush: Works by the Meito Shodo-Kai Calligraphy Association," and "Portland Psychedelic: Music and Culture in the Rose City and Beyond, 1966–1972." OHS also offers several amazing lecture series, one being the Mark O. Hatfield series, which brings together the nation's top scholars and award-winning authors for an evening of thought-provoking history.

When you sign up at the OHS all you need to do is note your membership on the application. (Including your GFO member number would be beneficial). If you're joining in person or by phone, let the person you're talking to know you are an affiliate member.

Serendipity

Eileen Chamberlain

Some years ago, Julie Kidd and I went to a national genealogy conference in Cincinnati, Ohio. While in the area, she wanted to take a drive to Grayson in Carter County, Kentucky, to try to find the Gollihugh family cemetery to locate ancestors. So we did.

We rented a car, and as we reached the area where she thought the cemetery was, I turned the car too quickly on a switch-back type road that led up to a local cemetery. Unfortunately, one wheel slid into the ditch on the side of the road. While Julie walked up to the cemetery to check it out, I walked across the street to a local home and knocked on the door. The man living there opened the door only slightly. I told him I'd run the car into the ditch, and, as I handed him my AAA card with the 1-800 number on it, I asked if he would please place the free phone call to help me get a tow truck. He just stared at me and said, "Whatcha doing trying to go up that road?" I told him my friend was related to the Gollihugh family, and she was hopeful that little cemetery was the family cemetery where they were buried. He opened the door a couple of inches further and mumbled that his wife's aunt was a Gollihugh.

Of course, at that point, I said, "Oh really!" He opened the door a bit more and told me to come in, stating that I should make the call, which I did. His wife was canning tomatoes, but she stopped for a few moments, long enough to share with me that while she was uncertain exactly where the cemetery was, her great-aunt, who lived on down the side road, knew where it was. So her husband got on the phone and called the great-aunt's number. He told her that as soon as we got the car out of the ditch we would be along. It took a half hour for the tow truck, and they easily got the car back on the road. We started down the side road the lady had told us about, to get to the great-aunt's home. She was quite old, but obviously someone who knew about the family cemetery. She told us to drive on down the road, and that even after it looked like the road stopped, we should keep going. The grass in the road was very tall, and had I not known there was something down it, I would have definitely stopped. But we went on, and after about a quarter mile, there was a lovely, old house that looked very much like a small southern plantation home, and behind it was the Gollihugh family cemetery. There was a young man who lived there and watched after the cemetery. He was friendly and knew we were coming, so Julie went around back and started taking pictures of all of her family members. Some of those ancestors are on her family sheets in the member chart books at the GFO library.

#GivingTuesday - November 27th

Giving Tuesday is a global giving movement all about helping community organizations through donations of time, resources, and talents. (More information here: <https://www.givingtuesday.org/>.)

GFO would like to invite you this #GivingTuesday for a volunteer event from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. We'll provide pastries, juice, coffee/tea, and pizza! Come out and meet friends both old and new.

Come, join the fun, and lend a hand! We'll be working in teams to do a shelf-read/inventory, chatting genealogy, and having a grand time!

GFO's October Star - Joann Taylor

A visitor on our Free Monday sent a comment about her experience at GFO's library recently:

“I wanted to tell you that I had a wonderful experience on Monday with Joann Taylor when I came to do some research on my family. She was so helpful and took extra time to help me, and I learned of places to look that I would never have thought of! She deserves a GOLD STAR!”

The visitor also noted that our organization is really great, and that she found all the volunteers she met so helpful.

Joann, in addition to serving as a Research Assistant at our library, also serves on our Research Team looking up historical information that people request from us via our website.

Thank you, Joann, for your tremendous volunteering at GFO!
