PMUG College Focuses on Apple Operating Systems

PMUG College returns April 10th at 6 p.m. at the GFO Library.

This month's Portland Mac Users Group lessons will examine 10 crucial questions about the Mac High Sierra and Mojave operating systems.

These classes are free for all GFO and PMUG members. Tell your friends! To register please call 503-228-1779 or email: college@pmug.org.

spearheaded GFO's participation at this year's Oregon Archives Crawl. We are so lucky to have their expertise and endless enthusiasm in bolstering GFO's visibility and professionalism among our local and state-wide history and research repositories.

GFO's March 2019 Star

Anne Wheeler

Anne is a dedicated, regular Sunday volunteer who usually beats everyone else into the library. Among other things she is a pro at locating misplaced books, earning her the name of "Finder of Lost Things."

Amazingly, she has volunteered at the library every Sunday but one for over three years. Anne is always willing to help where needed and even stepped up to serve as Director at Large when asked. She has also served on the Disaster Preparedness and Grants Committees. We are pleased to present her with this honor for her long and distinguished service at the GFO.

GFO's February 2019 Stars

Trysta Notestine and Emily Mercer

Aspiring Archivists at GFO

The newest GFO Stars are interns who have been working with the Manuscripts Committee this past year.

Trysta came to GFO in 2016 and helped complete the processing of our Jesuale Special Collection (preview available here: <https://bit.ly/2Smq0VC>). Over the last few months, she developed a policy and procedures guide for GFO's found-artifacts, which was adopted by the board last month.

Emily came to GFO last summer. She completed digitizing the recently donated Stiles Collection and helped with other special projects.

Both Trysta and Emily represented GFO at the October 5th Oregon Historical Society Affiliates Summit. They also

GFO Hall of Fame Nominations

Needed by May 1st

Please be sure to send your nominations to secretary@gfo.org before May 1st. The Hall of Fame Award is our way of honoring GFO members who have performed outstanding service to the Forum.

The award is limited to one person per year, except in the case where a pair of members has worked together or if the Board waives the limitation. A nomination may be made by any Forum member and the recipient will be selected by a majority vote of the Board of Directors.

The recipient must have a well-documented history of service, leadership, and accomplishment in more than one facet of the Forum over a significant period of time. Please include examples of how this nominee fulfilled all three categories.

A Message from the President: Please Vote!

The GFO is your organization. Please vote! You will be receiving a ballot by direct email from the GFO.

We have four fine candidates for Vice-President, Treasurer, Director at Large, and the Endowment Committee. Plus, we’re fine-tuning our Bylaws.

While we don’t have any contested positions, we need GFO Members to vote on the Bylaws. They’re too lengthy to include here. This means you must read them online.

The changes include: housekeeping measures to make them clearer, making sure they include what we’ve done for many years, and three substantive changes.

An important note: We’re suggesting changes to protect and improve the GFO at a time when the Board of Directors works very well together, not because any problems prompt this.

Some paragraph numbering was off; we’re fixing that. Some things have been combined, others separated. We more clearly define the Officers and Directors on the Board, and better explain who must serve on the Board. We changed “Forum” to “GFO” and made consistent how we capitalize and use numbers and dates. None of these alter how we’ve been doing things.

The three substantial changes we propose are:

ARTICLE V explains that a majority of the board may remove a director.

ARTICLE VI explains that if we cannot recruit a nominating committee, then board members may recruit but not nominate candidates.

ARTICLE VIII gives committee chairs a formal role with respect to the Board of Directors. This has been the practice and we felt it was time to formalize it.

Please read the full proposal of Bylaws revisions on our website at gfo.org/bylaws2019. [continued on page 3]

Scanned and released by the Imperial War Museum on the IWM Non Commercial License.

I cannot let this opportunity pass to offer profound thanks to the three board members who are stepping down on June 30th. Treasurer Richard Crocket has handled our finances for six years. We are extremely grateful for his dedication and generosity. Vice President Sharyle Kingston and Director at Large Bonnie Randolph have also given us generous amounts of their time on the board for which we thank them profusely. We hope all three of these Board members will continue in other volunteer roles.

Please remember, GFO is all-volunteer. To keep this non-profit thriving, we need your support. This month, that means taking a few minutes to vote.

If you are an active GFO member, please return your ballot by May 6th at 8 p.m.

Thank you,
Vince Patton
President

Boot Camp Success Story

Sarah Holmes

In about 1985, I started looking for information about my father. I knew a lot about him from the time he married my mother (second marriage for them both), but I did not know anything about his growing-up years.

The search for information led me to a first cousin who had married a genealogist who worked at the Family History Library in Salt Lake City. She shared her family tree, but it had very few sources recorded. Her husband had passed. I asked her if she could share his research and source information. Her comment: "Oh, I threw all that away."

However, I was able to do several "tests" on the family tree she had provided, and found it to be fairly competent, so I focused on things I didn't know. For some of those "tests" I started with U.S. Census records. And yes, dates, locations, parents, and so on were all correct. Eventually, I moved on to other things and never really mined those records for any additional nuggets of information.

In about 1998, I received a picture of my father as a young man, standing in front of his father's livery stable in Kansas.

No one in the family seemed to know where the livery stable had been located. An elderly aunt at first said "Pretty Prairie," but then later she said she didn't know. Pretty Prairie is located in Reno County, Kansas.

I contacted the Reno County Historical Society and the Kingman County Historical Society (another possibility) with no success. When visiting Kansas, I even talked to several old timers. A cousin and I looked at old buildings in Pretty Prairie. I wrote letters and included a copy of the picture. Still no success.

Recently, while I was attending GFO's Genealogy Boot Camp, I was following along with instructor Laurel Smith's suggestions for searching Ancestry.com more [continued on page 5] efficiently. I entered my father's name in the search parameters, and I found him in the 1910 census, which I already had noted on my family tree.

Earlier in the session, Laurel had stressed the importance of looking at the entirety of each image gathered during our family history research. She explained we should be careful to process all the available information contained in any historical document—not skipping any information. Something I would routinely do now, but not something I had done with the data I'd gathered from my cousin.

Sitting in class, I did this on the image on my screen. There was a clue I had never noticed!

My grandfather John Phillip Cook lived in Albion Township (within which is Pretty Prairie) and was listed as the proprietor of a "Livery Barn." All these years I've had the information and didn't know it.

I am now trying to find out from the Reno County Historical Society if there is a city directory that might tell me exactly where the livery barn was located. But I now know it really was in Pretty Prairie.

Lessons learned: Pay attention to every little piece of information when you look at a record, and if you are stuck, go back and look at information you already have.

Find A Grave to the Rescue!

Marilyn Essary Buerger

Last October, I checked Find A Grave's website to see if there was an online memorial for my parents before I went back to my hometown of Sacramento, California, for a reunion. I found my dad's memorial with a picture of his marker. I could not find my mother, however, and her marker should have been right next to my dad's.

When I went to the reunion, I visited the cemetery. Still, I found no marker for my mother, who died in 1999.

I couldn't talk to anyone at the cemetery because I was there on a Sunday. I remembered that our family had paid for a marker and the installation—but my brother had kept none of the paperwork. I called the cemetery as soon as I could.

Indeed, they had never installed a marker for my mother. I trusted that they had, and never checked because life was always so busy.

The cemetery has records showing the marker had been purchased but was never installed. They did a thorough search for the marker and could not find it.

While the cemetery agreed this was their responsibility, the marker is still not placed. The people were very apologetic and kind.

I'm on this now. I've made five calls, and, in fact, they called me back as I was writing this. The marker was ordered and proofed in December, with a schedule to be shipped by the end of January. I have a cousin there who was able to confirm the headstone was placed on January 22nd.

All this to say, Find A Grave's website is helpful even from far away!

Computer Lab: InDesign® 101

Taught by Jay Fraser, Layout Editor, GFO Bulletin

Sat., April 20
2 - 4 p.m.

Free & open to the public

Genealogy research isn't just about finding the answer, it's also about communicating the answer to others. From writing a book or assembling a photo album with stories, Adobe InDesign® can help make the design of your project more professional. InDy gives you excellent control of typography, page design, and book organization. It also has dynamic tools like indexing, cross-referencing, and table of contents. Begin to learn the basics of this powerful program in this special, two-hour GenTalk.

If you own InDesign, please bring your laptop with the program loaded. Otherwise, you may follow along with the demonstration.

Jay Fraser, a professional graphic designer, volunteered in 2014 to put his expertise to work for the GFO as the Layout Editor for the GFO Bulletin. Adobe InDesign® is one of the programs with which he has considerable knowledge and experience, and during this GenTalk he will share some of that knowledge with us.
